MIKADO AND MUSCOVITE FIGHT TO DEATH

Victory Rested With the Russians Throughout the First Day of What Is to Be the Bloodiest Battle in History

The Issue Yet in Doubt But It Is Believed at St. Petersburg That the Tide of War Is About to Turn—It Will Be, It Is Admitted, a Crushing of One Army or the Other. The Nature of the Ground Deprives the Japanese of the Use of Their Mountain Guns and Gives the Czar's Cossacks a Freer Play.

The news silence regarding the battle of Liao Yang—perhaps to be regarded as the most sanguinary in the history of warfare—began with dispatches to the Associated Press direct from the battlefield late Tuesday night, was broken by the dispatches received yesterday saying that fighting had been resumed at dawn that morning and that firing extended along the entire line, some seven miles in extent. A dispatch from Liao Yang, received late in the afternoon, told of repeated bayonet advances on the road directly south of Liao Yang, where the Russians shelled the Japanese positions until 4 o'clock in the afternoon when the engagement, which was general throughout the south and southeast, narrowed to the main line. Cannonading continued until evening without advantage on either side. A sudden termination of direct dispatches gave rise to the belief that communication had been cut north of Liao Yang, but it is officially stated from St. Petersburg that this was incorrect. It is positively stated in St. Petersburg that the emperor received yesterday afternoon a dispatch from Liao Yang. The contents of this dispatch, however, were not disclosed. A Liao Yang dispatch filed at 5:21 p. m. says that the Japanese were getting around the Russian left flank while a later dispatch stated that the Russians had effected an advance along the railway to the southward, from which direction the Russians had retreated before the battle of Liao Yang was begun.

Reports reaching St. Petersburg are to the effect that the results so far have been favorable to the Russians. Dispatches estimate the Japanese force at about 240,000 men and the Russians at from 170,000 to 200,000 men with from 600 to 1,000 guns engaged on each side. According to official Japanese dispatches neither contestant has realized any visible results.

ST. PETERSBURG TREMBLES.

The Defeat of One Side or the Other Will Be Crushing.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 1.—2 a. m.—With the knowledge that the Russian and Japanese armies about Liao Yang are locked in a death struggle, the tension in St. Petersburg tonight is strained to the utmost. It is believed here that the fight cannot stop short of the crushing defeat of one side or the other. All reports so far are favorable to the Russians, though a suspension of all news for many hours has been exceedingly trying and has given rise to several rumors somewhat tempering the earlier enthusiasm. It is stated officially, however, that the report that the railway and telegraph have been cut north of Liao Yang is untrue. A member of the general staff said to the Associated Press at midnight: "I can assure you that up to this hour communication with Liao Yang has not been interrupted. General Kuropatkin has taken particular precautions against any attempt to cut the railway. While it is always possible that a small raiding party might slip through the Russian patrols or that hired Chinese bandits might cut the telegraph, it is a fairer supposition, in view of all the facts, that this has not been done."

The highest military authorities here consider that the most critical stage of the battle has not yet been reached and they believe that the fight may continue for some time before either side acknowledges defeat. This is an important consideration by the light of which to interpret any immediate news. It is thought here that in view of the numbers engaged, the desperation of the assaults and length of the line, about seven miles, the losses in the two days' fighting cannot fall short of 10,000 on each side. Both sides are straining every nerve, realizing that the fortunes of the war for a whole in the mood or position to spare men in an effort to achieve final victory.

The battle of Liao Yang will probably rank as one of the great sanguinary battles of history. It is estimated by the general staff that the Japanese armies engaged numbered seventeen divisions of 15,000 men each, or allowing inefficiency, about 240,000 men. Each division has thirty-six guns, and there are two independent artillery brigades of 100 guns each, making a total of about 800 guns. Estimates of the Russian correspondents range from 600 to 1,000 guns per side.

In the preliminary fighting of Monday the Russians captured 200 prisoners, who have already arrived at Harbin and report persists that they captured over forty Japanese guns yesterday. General Kuropatkin's offensive forces are variously estimated at from 170,000 to 200,000 men.

The Japanese are using balloons to locate the Russian guns. One of the Russian correspondents of the Associated Press points out that the Japanese sent up a balloon shortly after daylight to drop shells into the Russian positions. These probably are the first angle howitzers which were reported in action earlier in the week.

It is plain, however, that the Japanese are no longer enjoying superiority in artillery, which stood them in such good stead in the earlier months of the war. It was then light fighting and the Japanese mountain batteries, in which arms the Russians were deficient, told with deadly effect. Now the contest is in a comparatively open country, where both Russian field guns and Russian cavalry can come into more effective use.

NO RESULT SAYS TOKIO.

Tokio, Sept. 1, 11 a. m.—The battle of Liao Yang is progressing without appreciable result. Official Japanese dispatches sent yesterday say that neither contestant has realized visible results.

SOME DETAILS OF THE BATTLE.

Liao Yang Shaken by the Thunder of the Cannon.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 31.—Some interesting details of yesterday's battle are furnished by a Russian correspondent, from which it appears that two regiments of Japanese at day break attempted to capture the batteries of the sixth artillery brigade, located on the extreme left flank of the Russian army. The attempt was only discovered in the nick of time. Some of the Russian troops fought continuously for thirty-six hours. The concussion and roar of guns shook the windows at Liao Yang, though the artillery was six to eight miles away.

Nemirovich Danchenko, the famous Russian war correspondent, describing the battle says: "The enemy, drunk with their former successes, attacked from three sides like mad men. When they were hurled back, fresh troops, of which they seemed to have an inexhaustible supply were sent forward."

M. Danchenko says the combatants had about 600 guns on each side, and added: "It was our first victory. The enemy was beaten back everywhere, many of his batteries were destroyed, and in some cases his infantry was put to rout."

LOWER VOICED CANNON.

Liao Yang, Aug. 31.—The battle is still in progress, but in strength of cannonade does not equal that of yesterday. The Japanese are getting around the Russian left flank.

Over 500,000 men and 15,000 guns are engaged on both sides. Practically the whole Russian force is on the firing line.

One regiment which had just arrived from Russia went into action with its band playing.

BEGAN WITH THE DAWN.

Japanese Fail at a Hill Shaved by Russian Artillery.

Liao Yang, Aug. 31.—The second day's battle commenced at dawn. The Russians made repeated bayonet advances on the road directly south of Liao Yang where the Japanese approached from Sanguishan and Tao. The Japanese were repulsed, when until 4 o'clock in the afternoon, when the engagement, which was general throughout the south and southeast, narrowed to the main line. The Japanese advance on the southeast was by way of the Feng Wang Chang road. Immediately in front of Chiao Funtun the Japanese stubbornly attempted to occupy a round topped hill, which was literally shaved by Russian shells, making repeated attempts the entire day where apparently it was impossible for anything to live. The cannonading continued from this point to the vicinity of Wangpaotai until evening without apparent advantage to either side. The Japanese dropped shells within two or three miles of the railroad station and in the plain of the Wentishu mountains, which is the most important eminence around Liao Yang, but the Japanese abandoned aggression there on account of the resistance they met. There was a cannon fire last night and this is expected tonight.

The varied casualties here include one Russian war correspondent wounded and also 25 Chinese women from Chiao Funtun, whom Dr. Westwater, the distinguished millionaire, is caring for in the Chinese Red Cross refuge. The day's developments show that the Russians are prepared for all emergencies. A slow rain began to fall at noon, gradually transforming the plain into a wilderness, through which the wounded, in carts and walking, are tonight making their way to the hospitals.

Considering the scale of the day's operations the number of the Russian wounded is apparently small, while the Japanese losses are believed to be great; especially where they were repulsed on the south road. Chinese groves of trees are being levelled about Liao Yang in order not to interfere with the defense.

Developments are expected west and northeast.

A NEW SENSATION.

St. Petersburg at Last Has Cause for Rejoicing.

St. Petersburg, August 31.—Success crowned the Russian army on the first day of the great battle of Liao Yang and the utmost confidence prevails here that the issue of the fight will be a complete victory for General Kuropatkin. From dawn until dark yesterday the battle raged, first in the center and left and then on the right of the Russian line. The Japanese charged gallantly and fought desperately to break the center and then in the afternoon came the movement against the opposite flank. This attack was delivered from the west, but General Kuropatkin had evidently anticipated just what happened, for he not only met and repulsed it, but actually was able by a superior force to overlap and envelop the Japanese. Last night both armies bivouacked in their positions.

No attempt was made by Lieutenant General Sakharoff in his report to estimate the Japanese losses, except to say that they were extremely heavy and the Russian losses were only approximately at 3,000. No Russian general officers fell.

General Kuropatkin's forces occupied positions forming a semi-circle about Liao Yang, the flanks resting on the Taitse river, east and west of the city. The battle divided itself into two periods. After the preliminary bombardment of the Russian lines on the right and center, the Japanese infantry advanced to attack, changing the Russian center. Although repeatedly checked they came on with bull dog tenacity, hurling themselves against the Russian positions with the bayonet. There were many bloody hand to hand encounters. By noon the Japanese successfully succeeded in occupying a portion of the Russian trenches. Then General Kuropatkin sent forward the reserves and delivering a series of counter attacks, recaptured the lost positions and drove back the Japanese all along the line.

The attack on the center having failed, the second half of the fight began at four o'clock in the afternoon, when the Japanese tried to turn and roll up the Russian right. Here also they failed, but only after a desperate struggle which was continued until 9 o'clock at night. The reserves dispatched in time by General Kuropatkin at last succeeded not only in checking the Japanese, but in enveloping them and driving them back in confusion. During the progress of the battle General Kuropatkin encouraged his men on the fighting line by sending out the news of the repulse of the attack upon Port Arthur on August 26.

The Japanese flank movement from the west began Monday from Chandi-madai, three miles southeast of Sha kha, which is eleven miles northwest of Liao Yang. One of the striking features of the battle was the splendid work of the Russian artillery, in which arm the Japanese have heretofore excelled. In a dispatch filed last night by one of the Associated Press Russian correspondents, he says that the report was current at Liao Yang that forty-six Japanese guns were captured during the day.

There is great rejoicing in St. Petersburg about the bulletin boards. The dispatches posted there are surrounded by eager crowds. The officials of the war office, although they have not yet received advices in regard to today's events, are in high spirits. The Japanese who have been continually advancing for a week, are now said to be utterly exhausted after yesterday's hard and unsuccessful fighting, and no doubt exists here that if opportunity offered General Kuropatkin will not fail to follow up the advantage he has achieved.

NO MORE RETREATING.

A Knowledge of it Buoyed up the Russian Soldiers.

Liao Yang, Aug. 31.—A Russian correspondent says: The Japanese all day yesterday carried on the fight with an energy approaching desperation, but the Russians were buoyed up in the belief that a point had been reached where there would be no more retreating and the Japanese attacks were met with shouts and hurrahs from the trenches and rifle pits.

"Five times the Japanese hurled themselves against our line, but each time they were repulsed at the point of the bayonet. There were about one thousand guns in action on each side, but we have more guns employed than have the Japanese."

"The losses cannot be computed, but they have been great everywhere, especially among the artillery men. For instance, in the first artillery brigade every officer was either killed or wounded and some of the guns were silenced absolutely owing to the death of all the gun crews. The spirits of the men are of the highest at all points."

A SHOW FOR LIAO YANG.

There was the Accompaniment of Shrieking Shells.

Liao Yang, Aug. 30.—(Tuesday).—The town has been filled with joy, owing to the report that the Russians took forty-six cannon today.

The Japanese assault on the Russian center was desperate in the extreme. The Japanese losses were great. The attack was sustained mainly by the Eighth Siberian regiment. The fighting at Vafangow cannot be compared with what occurred today. Shells shrieked over the town from early morning. People who occupied positions on the house tops had a magnificent spectacle. Rain has begun to fall.

JAPANESE LOSS IN CANNON.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 31.—Further dispatches from Liao Yang confirm the report of the capture of forty-six Japanese guns, which were brought up to the railroad station, where General Kuropatkin's train was standing.

CAPTURED JAPANESE.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 31.—A dispatch from Mukden this afternoon says it is reported here that General Samsonoff captured two Japanese battalions.

RUSSIAN LOSSES.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 31.—Lieutenant General Sakharoff, telegraphing the general staff at the conclusion of yesterday's sixteen hours fighting around Liao Yang, estimates the Russian casualties throughout the day at 3,000. The battle ended at nine last night, when many positions occupied by the Japanese, were retaken and held by the Russians.

THE SECOND DAY.

Liao Yang, Aug. 31.—The battle was resumed today without rifle fire, at dawn in the southwest. There was desultory firing all night. The last attack of the Japanese was made at 7 p. m. on the Feng Wang Chang road.

NO MORE WIRELESS AT CHEFOO.

Washington, Aug. 31.—The state department has received a cablegram from Consul General Fowler at Chefoo, saying that the Russian wireless telegraph station has been dismantled.

for trotters eligible to the 2:12 class last March. Seven responded to the call and Sweet Marie, the unbeaten California mare won. Consuelo S. held at even money against the field, was very rank in scoring for the opening heat and delayed the start for some time. When finally the word was given Tiverton shot across to the pole, with the favorite in hot pursuit. These relative positions were maintained to the wire, the former winning by a length.

The second heat was a duplicate of the first, and then the judges took a hand in the affair, removing Smith from behind Sweet Marie and substituting Alta McDonald. For the third heat Tiverton led to well beyond the half, when Sweet Marie moved up and they raced like a team to the seven eighths pole. At this point, the New York gelding weakened and Sweet Marie won by a length. The time for the heat, 2:06 1-4, is the race record for the year made by trotters. This was the decisive point in the contest, for while Tiverton tried his hardest in the next two heats Sweet Marie held him safely.

The aggregate time of the five heats is the world's record, lowering that in the famous stalling race at Readville in the Cresceus-Charley Parr memorable turf battle. Prince Alert was driven to beat the world's record of 1:59 1-4 and failed by 1 1-4 seconds.

MET ON THE GRAND TRUNK

A Canadian Collision in Which Nine Were Killed.

Montreal, Aug. 31.—Nine persons were killed and twenty-three others injured in a head-on collision on the Grand Trunk railway near Richmond, Quebec, today. The trains involved were a special excursion from Montreal bound for Sherbrooke and passenger train No. 5, running between Island Pond, Vermont, and Montreal.

The following is a list of the killed: J. B. BLANCHETT, M. P., St. Hyacinthe.

FRED BORING, South Durham. Y. H. HACKETT, Montreal. Unknown man from Beloit, P. Q. W. G. MOUNTAIN, Montreal. Boy named BUDFORD, from Alhabaska.

EPHRAIM GAUDETTE, St. Theodore de Acton. CHAS. A. SAMARD, St. Hyacinthe. A. THEODORE RICHARD, Lisgar, Quebec.

The excursion train, made up of ten coaches and a baggage car, carried about one thousand persons bound for the exhibition at Sherbrooke. The Island Pond train was composed of five coaches and a baggage car and had only a small number of persons on board. The excursion train had barely cleared the Richmond yard when rounding a curve, it met the Island Pond train running at a high rate of speed. The engines reversed and, with their firemen, jumped and escaped with minor injuries.

Both engines were locked firmly together. The baggage car of the excursion train was picked up and dropped on top of the car following it. The smoker, and it was on these two cars that the greater number of fatalities occurred.

JUAREZ ON FIRE.

El Paso, Sept. 1.—The city of Juarez, Mexico, across the river from El Paso, is threatened with destruction by fire. Already one block of the best business houses have been burned and all efforts of the fire department have thus far been futile. The loss will be heavy.

A MEAT FAMINE

Mr. Donnelly Thinks, Will Bring Packers to Terms

SETS ABOUT TO MAKE

The Independent Packers Stripped of Their Stock Handlers—The Effort to Involve Railroad Men Has so far Met With Failure.

Chicago, Aug. 31.—President Donnelly ordered 1,500 butcher workmen employed in the independent packing plants to cease work after today. He said if these men continue slaughtering cattle, they will be handling stock previously looked after by men taking their places of the stock handlers selected to quit work today. A meat famine is declared by the strikers as the probable result of the new movement. Orders were issued for a general strike of all butcher workmen throughout the country. They are expected to go out tomorrow. The order will effect 2,000 men in Chicago and ten independent plants. The order will also effect hundreds of towns throughout the country. Union officials assert that 15,000 will go out.

Six hundred stock handlers at the stock yards quit work today. The packers say that President Donnelly's aim is to create a meat famine which will arouse public indignation and force a settlement. An effort is to be made to have the railroad switchmen throughout the country refuse to handle anything for the packers.

ONLY PARTIAL SUCCESSFUL. Chicago, Aug. 31.—The efforts of President Donnelly to spread the strike against the packers throughout all trades that are in any way connected with the packing house industry has been only partially successful. The first step was in calling out the men employed by the independent packers and stock handlers that were still at work for these packers against whom the original strike was made. The total number of men who quit work today was about 3,000.

It was also announced by President Donnelly that he had made arrangements for a strike of the switchmen on the railroads doing business in the stock yards and that in a short time the packers would find it impossible to ship out their products. The switchmen, however, refused to strike. After a long meeting tonight, which was attended jointly by the members of the switchmen's union and members of the brotherhood of railway trainmen, it was decided that the members of both organizations would remain at work. The members of the switchmen's union declared themselves ready to strike, but those switchmen who are members of the brotherhood of railway trainmen declined to do so. When this was made known to the members of the switchmen's union, they declared that a strike on their part would be useless, unless the members of the brotherhood went out at the same time and they rescinded their action.
